

Save Our Acute Services (SOAS): URGENT Press Release

Tuesday 15th July 2025

 Western Trust email creates confusion in Fermanagh and South Tyrone ***

 To our knowledge, Western Trust public consultation meeting scheduled for tonight is still cancelled ***

There is extreme confusion this evening among the 450 people who had signed up for the public consultation meeting that was initially scheduled for tonight at 7pm in the Killyhevlin Hotel in Enniskillen.

The Western Trust announced the cancellation of this meeting on Friday last. However, all those who signed up for the meeting received an email this evening at 5pm stating that the meeting was going ahead.

Our social media has been inundated with queries from an extremely confused population.

To our knowledge, the meeting tonight at 7pm still remains cancelled.

We have scoured the Western Trust communication channels and do not see any indication that the meeting tonight is going ahead.

We have posted an update to social media confirming our understanding that the meeting is still cancelled.

It is unfortunate that our community must be subjected to further confusion regarding this public consultation.

Committee members from SOAS will be in attendance outside the Killyhevlin Hotel to update any members of the public who do turn up expecting the public meeting to be going ahead.
